I. Case Transfers and Returns Between Regions

Case Transfer Overview

When a Welfare-to-Work (WTW) participant moves from one county region to another, the current Employment Case Manager must transfer the case to the new region where the participant now resides for continued services.

Status Codes for Transfer Cases

Cases in active status can be transferred. Cases with sanctioned and non-compliant individuals in non-active statuses can be transferred when mutual agreement is reached between the sending and receiving regions.

Transfer of Companion Cases

Companion cases (spouse, child, teen of the participant) must be transferred together.

Transfer Procedures for WTW Cases

Refer to CalWORKs Processing Guide 10-260.A.1 WTW Document Capture Activities

Transferring Sanctioned and/or Compliance Plan Cases

Cases may not be transferred when there is a pending sanction or pending completion of a compliance plan, except on a case-by-case basis when mutual agreement is reached between the sending and receiving region. Regions should assign the authority to accept cases in non-active status to a specific staff level or person.

When a WTW sanctioned individual moves and it is in their best interest to have his or her WTW case transferred to the new region of residence to facilitate a conciliation or sanction "cure", the sending region should follow the procedure below:

Step	Action
1	Contact the new region and request acceptance of sanction case transfer. • If the region agrees to accept the case, then continue to Step 2.
2	Complete the WTW Case Transfer/Closing Checklist (27-313) ensuring all appropriate areas are checked. • Write in "Comments" section that the participant is in sanctioned or non-compliance status. • Note the name of the person in the receiving region who agreed to accept the case.
3	Ensure that case is sent to receiving region within 24 hours of the time the mutual agreement was reached for transfer.

Timing of Transfer of Cases may not be transferred after the 20th of the month unless supportive service payments for the next month have been approved and issued. This is to ensure that

Case	all necessary supportive payments are issued timely.
Transfers to Incorrect Regions	Cases transferred to an inappropriate region will be returned to the sending region.
Former Refugee Cases	Unless a Federal Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR) waiver is in effect, refugee cases, for people who have been in the United States for five or more years, are to be transferred from the Refugee WTW Employment Services provider regions to the mainstream WTW Regions.

Case Return

Regions must keep the number of returned cases to the lowest level possible to avoid unnecessary disruption of services, inconvenience and confusion to participants. A case shall only be returned if at least one of the following occurs:

1. One of the following required forms is missing, as appropriate:
   - Signed WTW 1
   - Completed assessment with case comments
   - Current and appropriate WTW Plan
     - Activities open in CalWIN must match assigned activities on the WTW Plan

   Note: In a situation where the applicant has not reached the stage for obtaining a particular form, the case cannot be returned for missing such a form.

2. There are no appropriate CalWIN participation entries for the last month.

3. A required service is not provided.

   Example: The case record indicates the participant requested ancillary payments for tools to attend an approved vocational training and there is no record of issuance of such payment, nor is there explanation for non-issuance. Since supportive services were not approved, it is possible that the participant may not be able to participate in required activities.

4. A required referral is not made.

   Example: The Simple Screening Instrument for Substance Abuse indicates a high degree of abuse but a referral was not made to the County Alcohol and Drug Services.
